EDL-Generation Public Company (EDL-Gen) has been honored with the Asia's Best Performing Companies award for 2025 at the prestigious ACES Awards, held on 28 November 2025 at the Intercontinental Resort Bali, Indonesia, presented by Mr. Souksavart Sosouphanh, Managing Director of EDL-Gen and his delegations, represented the company in receiving this distinguished award.

This marks the second time EDL-Gen has received recognition from the ACES Awards, with the first award dating back to 2018.

This recognition affirms EDL-Gen's clear vision and leadership in delivering stable, green, and sustainable energy for the region.

ACES Awards is a program that recognizes outstanding leaders and organizations in Asia for their excellence in leadership, sustainability, and corporate responsibility. The awards honor companies and individuals who set industry benchmarks and contribute to economic and social progress. Asia Corporate Excellence & Sustainability Awards (ACES): Recognizes outstanding leadership and sustainability achievements in Asia. Focus: The awards highlight companies and individuals who demonstrate excellence in leadership, sustainability, and corporate responsibility. Evaluation: The program uses a rigorous, research-driven evaluation to identify leaders who embody responsible growth, ethical governance, and contribute to the global sustainability agenda. Recognition: The ACES Awards have three main categories: Individual, Corporate, and Sustainability.

This year, the ACES Awards received a record breaking 827 nominations from 32 countries across more than 40 industries. From this impressive field, 381 finalists advanced through months of rigorous evaluations by the ACES Council, culminating in more than 946 hours of assessment. And finally, in this awards ceremony, only 46 outstanding companies from across Asia were selected. These companies represent strength, diversity, and excellence in organizational management. Among them is EDL-Gen, which received the award in the category of Asia's Best Performing Companies, recognizing its strong organizational leadership, clear strategic direction, and exceptional operational performance.

EDL-Gen expresses its sincere gratitude to all employees, shareholders, and the government for their continued support. This achievement is the result of collaboration, commitment, and dedication from every stakeholder.
